#EuropeDay 2022: spotlight on the Year of Youth and the closing of the Conference on the Future of Europe

A comprehensive overview of all activities can be found on our interinstitutional platform

On 9 May, we mark the anniversary of the historic Schuman Declaration, which laid the foundation for what is now the European Union.

Given Russia's unprovoked and unjustified military aggression against Ukraine, Europe Day 2022 is an even more important moment to reaffirm our attachment to peace, showcase our unity and solidarity with Ukraine and the Ukrainian people and stand up for universal values, like freedom and democracy in a rules-based global order.

As the 2022 European Year of Youth puts the spotlight on Europe's young people, and with citizens' voices amplified by the Conference on the Future of Europe, this 9 May is an opportune moment to discuss the challenges that Europeans are facing today and proposals how to face them. The Conference has been an unprecedented exercise in deliberative democracy, with citizens from all corners of Europe having their say on Europe's future, debating the Union's challenges and priorities, and engaging with policy makers on their suggestions. In Strasbourg on Europe Day, a report with the outcome of the Conference will be submitted to the Presidents of the European Parliament, the Council and the Commission.

To mark Europe Day, the EU institutions are inviting everybody to a wide range of online and on-site activities both in Member States and around the world. Save-the-dates for events in EU headquarters: Saturday 7 May in Brussels, Monday 9 May in Luxembourg and Sunday 15 May in Strasbourg.

On top of that, visitors will be able to take a virtual tour of the EU institutions. Test their EU knowledge, follow events live online and learn about what is done to make Europe safer, greener, healthier and more digital for future generations. All information about Europe Day 2022 is available on a dedicated interinstitutional Europe Day platform and some of the highlights in this factsheet.
